European Reds Reported Set For New Blow

Huge Force Claimed Ready For Offensive in Korea

TOKYO, Sept. 5 (Wednesday)—AP.—The threat of a new Red offensive backed by 1,000 planes and thousands of European Communist troops hung today over the stalled Korean truce talks.

Gen. Matthew G. Ridgway's headquarters said there was a strong possibility that the Communists are known to have 40 newly equipped divisions poised for action.

They are supported by 30 reserve divisions and a Manchurian-based air force of 1,000 planes, headquarters added. The Red reserve strength includes "large numbers" of Caucasian volunteers from European satellite nations including eastern Germany. They were equipped with tanks, artillery and armor.

One Allied officer said he had heard these Caucasians have been coming into Korea at the rate of 3,000 a day for the last two months, indicating they may number an impressive 180,000.

These startling figures were made public by the supreme Allied commander. Tuesday shortly after Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy, chief Allied truce negotiator, answered bluntly and briefly the latest complaints from the Communist High Command.

In these complaints, Lieut. Gen. Nam Il, top Red negotiator, rehearsed earlier charges that Allied planes and soldiers had violated the neutral zone around Kaesong, where the truce talks were suspended by the Reds Aug. 23.

Nam Il again demanded that those responsible for the alleged incidents be "severely punished." Joy in Tokyo for top-secret conferences with Ridgway replied that the Red charge were "intemperate, distorted" and a "mere volume of words." He again denied all of them.

The announcement by Ridgway's headquarters was similar to an estimate of Red forces issued earlier by Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander, but it was in greater detail.

Missing Pilot Left Note, Started Trek

EDMONTON, Sept. 4 (CP)—The R.C.A.F. said tonight it has found evidence that Johnny Bourassa of Peace River, Alta., set out by foot for civilization after surviving the crash-landing of his light plane on a lake shore in the Northwest Territories last May 18.

They said a note was left in the plane saying the pilot left Wholadala Lake about 370 miles southeast of Yellowknife, N.W.T., five days after the landing.

All maps and emergency supplies were missing from the plane when it was inspected to-day by an R.C.A.F. pilot who landed on the lake to investigate.

Bourassa indicated in the note that he was not injured. He said he intended to walk northwest, hoping to reach Great Slave Lake.

The cost-of-living index, barometer of price changes for the family, jumped 1.3 points to a record-shattering 188.9 to mark the ninth consecutive climb in nine months.

The Bureau of Statistics reported today. The index, based on 1935-39 prices equaling 100, stood at 187.6 in June.

But on the wholesale side, the bureau reported price drops for a group of essential materials—from raw sugar to tin—pushing its weekly index for 30 industrial materials down to 288.2 on Aug. 24—a 7.8-point decline from 296.1 for July 27.

The housewife, doing her shopping in July, found price jumps prevailing for almost all family budget items, but the big headache was in foodstuffs.

There were new, higher price tags on pork, beef, veal, lamb, eggs, milk, bread, sugar, turnips, canned vegetables and jam, overpowering the effect of price drops for potatoes, carrots, onions, oranges, lemons and vegetable shortening.

To Study Disposal Plan
For All Garbage in City

By GORDON FORBES
A proposal whereby a private company would undertake collection and disposal of all garbage in Victoria is under consideration by city council's public works committee.

At a works committee meeting yesterday, Ald. Dr. J. D. Hunter, chairman, said the proposal will be discussed at next week's meeting of the recently revived inter-municipal committee.

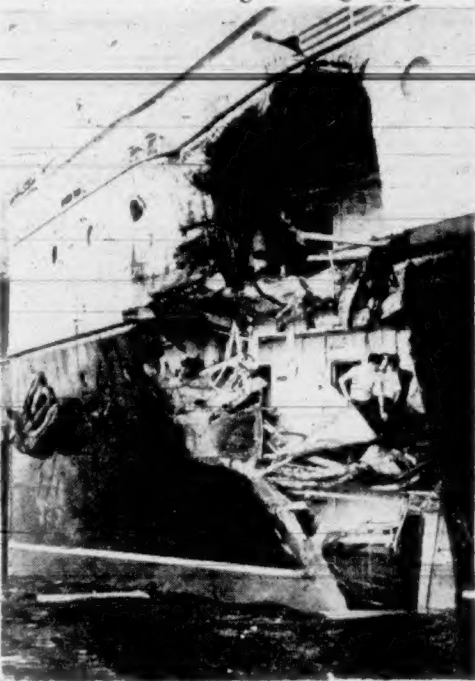

The proposal was outlined to the works committee in a report from city engineer Cyril Jones. He said A. W. Keynes of the Westminster firm Weeks recently discussed with his department the feasibility of the plan.

The general basis of the proposed agreement, according to the engineer, would be the complete collection of domestic and commercial garbage within the city and adjacent municipalities, and final disposal of the burned residues.

"Mr. Keynes told me the company, to be known as the B.C. Disposal Company, would guarantee a complete combustion of materials and a smokeless operation. Each disposal unit would be housed in a building of suitable character, and the surrounding area landscaped to a point where garbage units would not be offensive," said Mr. Jones.

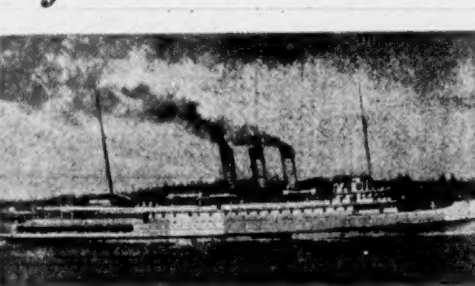

The proposal would include purchase of the city's present plant, including the crusher, trucks and transfer of employees to the company's payroll.

Collision Damage Being Repaired

A gaping hole in the port bow of the C.P.R. passenger steamer Princess Kathleen, result of a collision with the Prince Rupert, C.N.R., is being repaired by marine engineers. The accident occurred 34 miles northwest of Prince Rupert. Both vessels made port under their own steam. They carried 480 passengers, but none was injured. (CP Photo.)

Former Pride Of C.P.R. Sold

"Say Au Revoir . . ."

By TREVOR COLLINS
The bugler aboard the proud Princess Victoria, queen of the C.P.R.'s coastal fleet for two decades, has been sold to Capital Iron and Metals, Ltd., in association with Wagner, Stein & Green Co., of Vancouver, M. L. Greene, manager of the Victoria firm announced yesterday a few hours after the deal had been concluded.

Future of the ship is still doubtful. Mr. Greene was not prepared to say whether she would be scrapped or used for some other purpose.

The Princess Victoria is well known to thousands of Victorians. Built in Newcastle-on-Tyne in 1902 and equipped with engines originally intended for a Swedish battleship, the "Vic" established herself as speed queen of the B.C. coast within a year.

She was taken from service last summer and retired to Thetis Cove to end her long and colorful career.

It was a sad-end for the popular old ship which was well known for her lack of vibration and comfortable-riding qualities.

On her arrival in Victoria in 1903, with Capt. J. W. Troup in command, she was the largest ship to have entered the inner harbor. She was the first ship on the coast to have a forward observation room.

She marked the end of the converted vessel era and was the first ship to introduce the triangle run between Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle.

She provided the first regular car ferry service to Seattle in 1930. Until a few years ago she averaged 30,000 sea miles a year, making her the most traveled ship on the coast.

Her powerful engines originally pushed her through the seas at 22 knots. Before retirement she could still hold her own with more modern ships.

Accepting the challenge of American steamers, she raced the Ss. Iroquois in 1907 from Victoria to Seattle. She started a half-hour behind and docked a half-hour ahead of the American ship.

Mercury Near
New Record

Victoria's official high of 82 yesterday was close to the all-time record for September of 89 degrees.

It happened seven years ago today. But the weatherman is of the doubtful opinion that it won't happen again today. He predicts an official high of 75 degrees.

Prove Desire for Peace, Truman Challenges Reds

Opens Historic Talks On Treaty for Japan

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 4 (AP)—President Truman tonight opened the Japanese peace conference with an unmistakable challenge to Russia to prove its desire for peace by action.

The President spoke in slow, measured tones in the glittering opera house where the United Nations organization was born.

He said the United States believes the proposed treaty with Japan will show "who wishes to put an end to war and who wishes to continue it."

"I pray that we all shall be united," he told delegates from 52 countries and a nation-wide television and radio audience.

He was introduced by State Secretary Dean Acheson, who, as head of the American delegation, has spent the past few days selling the treaty to some smaller countries which had indicated they might not sign.

Mr. Truman was greeted with a standing ovation as he entered the gilded hall and again when he was introduced.

The Russian delegation did not applaud when he entered; but did when he was introduced.

GROMYKO ROSES
Russia's black-haired Andrei Gromyko, who may try to break up or delay the conference, sat quietly in the fifth row right. He rose to his feet slowly both times Mr. Truman drew applause.

"No comment" was all Gromyko would say when Mr. Truman finished speaking.

Mr. Truman and his party went directly to the President's hotel, where he was to meet the heads of all the delegations at an informal reception.

Like Gromyko, Josef Winiewicz, Polish ambassador to the United States, and Dr. Gertruda Sekaninova, Czechoslovakia's deputy foreign minister, refused to comment on what Mr. Truman had to say about peace.

Week-End Toll Hits Grim 658

CHICAGO, Sept. 4 (AP)—At least 658 violent deaths—a record high for the holiday—marked the United States Labor Day celebration.

A final tabulation today showed that violent death struck somewhere every seven minutes during the 78-hour holiday period.

A Labor Day record high of 461 were killed in traffic mishaps and 261 in other accidents, according to the National Safety Council, blamed a small proportion of "crazy fools" among U.S. motorists for the grim toll.

Drownings accounted for 97 dead and a variety of other mishaps—including plane crashes, fires and falls—killed another 100.

delegates are the three that observers feel will most likely refuse to sign on Saturday.

Among the countries reluctant to say they would sign—because they had asked for reparations—was the Netherlands.

Birk U. Sikker, that country's foreign minister, asked to reserve comment until after he had studied the speech.

The fireworks are expected to start tomorrow, over the rules of procedure that the U.S. and Britain have proposed.

The rules would limit speeches to one hour for each delegation—a move aimed squarely at Russian filibuster tactics.

State Secretary Dean Acheson

apparently had assured Mr. Truman of support of the rules by practically every delegation except those from Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Opening the historic Japanese Peace Treaty Conference before applauding delegates in the San Francisco War Memorial Opera House, Mr. Truman gave the Russians a thinly-veiled challenge to show whether they want to "make peace" or "prevent it."

In solemn, measured tones, he told delegates, including Russia's Andrei Gromyko:

"The treaty now before us offers more than talk of peace. It offers action for peace."

"This conference will show, therefore, who seeks to make peace, and who seeks to prevent it, who wishes to put an end to war, and who wishes to continue it."

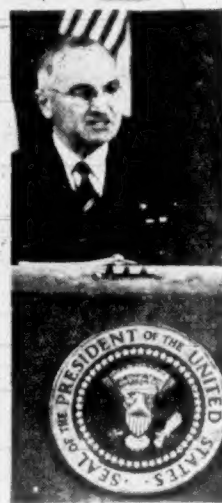

Japan, he said, would not constitute an offensive threat, but its forces together with those of other nations, "would provide mutual security against threats to the independence of the nations of the Pacific, including Japan."

The challenge was in the President's offer for an eventual conference on far eastern problems. The warning was said to be contained in his statements that there should be no obstruction to signing of a Japanese peace treaty.

The Conservative Daily Telegraph also commented:

"How far the political and social atmosphere of Japan has been permanently modified for the better in the past six years remains an open question."

"Many presently are not prepared to endorse Mr. Truman's optimistic estimate but will hope that he is right."

Deadlier Weapons Disclosed

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 4 (INS)—President Truman said today that the United States has "fantastic" new weapons more powerful than the atomic bomb.

Mr. Truman made the disclosure in a talk to 1,000 California Democrats at a luncheon in San Francisco in which he called for forces he said were seeking to block the nation's rearmament and use economic and military aid to its allies.

The chief executive asserted: "Those people are flirting with the national security and the end of civilization and a return to the darkest of the dark ages."

"It is terrible to think of what would happen if we have a third world war."

"We have fantastic new weapons. It is terrible to think what can happen not only with the one we have—the atomic bomb—but with others more fantastic in their operation which you cannot imagine."

"I hope we never have to use them."

DON'T UNDERSTAND

The President said a lot of people "don't seem to understand or want to understand what the administration is trying to achieve in rearming the nation against aggression and in helping its allies to rearm."

The President pointedly was assailing the Congressional cut of $1,000,000,000 from his recommendation of $8,500,000,000 aid this year to the other free nations.

He said "the people who oppose the arming of others and ourselves are gambling with the nation's survival," and that "peace and strength go together."

Food Handling At Hospital Investigated

Food handling methods at Royal Jubilee Hospital are being investigated by an inspector of the city sanitary department, it was learned yesterday.

Although officials have said nothing about the check-up, it is understood the decision to carry out a thorough inspection was made after a recent report showing unsanitary milk handling techniques at the hospital.

The inspector charged with the task is expected to make several recommendations for improvements. The inspection has been going on for several days. The report probably will go to the Union Board of Health at its next meeting.

There also has been talk in civic circles that health board meetings, only recently opened to the press, may be closed again. Before this came about, however, there would be considerable debate within the board because it is known some of its members are strenuously opposed to meeting behind closed doors.

Publicity given the investigation of milk handling at the hospital angered certain officials who felt airing of the issue would serve no useful purpose.

Jury Decrees
Death Murder

VANCOUVER, Sept. 4 (CP)—A coroner's jury today threw out an early police theory of accidental death and classified the August 26 death of Stephen Yuskow, 46-year-old Vancouver hotel owner, as a homicide.

Yuskow was found lying unconscious on the first-floor foyer of his east-end hotel. He died in hospital 11 hours later, without regaining consciousness.

Police said at the start of their investigation, they believed Yuskow died from "week-old injuries sustained when he fell down a flight of stairs."

The jury found today that Yuskow "came to an unnatural death as a result of a head injury sustained when he was struck by some unknown person, causing him to fall and strike his head on a step."

"In our opinion," the verdict said, "we classify this as a homicide."

Two witnesses said they saw two youths flee from the hotel the night Yuskow died.

By G. E. Mortimore ALL ABOARD

Like many great projects, the Mortimore Child Information Bureau began in a simple way.

My wife and I set out fishing on the lake, with a large and clearly visible fishing rod and line and a Jitterbug plug splashing behind us.

A neighbor's infant daughter ran down to the shore and yelled: "Mr. Mortimore! Are you going fishing?"

"Why, no, I replied, it happens that we are just coming to the middle of the lake to play a game of tag."

There was a little mind thirsting for information. What greater pleasure could one have than to plunge the little head in the fountain of learning and hold it under for a long, long time? Holding it under the lake would do, if there was no fountain of learning handy.

On Labor Day I took my typewriter down to the table on the lawn and started to do some work. I had written about a dozen lines when I was surrounded by a regiment of small tads.

"Are you typing?" one of them asked, his little eyes snapping with zeal to learn.

"Curious that you should ask," I replied. "As a matter of fact, no. Oddly enough, I am trying an egg."

They left me and whirled up and down the waterfront in mad pursuit of crayfish. They had previously asked me why the Child Information Bureau bothered to catch crayfish, and the Child Information Bureau was foolish enough to tell them that crayfish were good to eat.

Presently the children returned with four crayfish and asked how they should be cooked. A smiling, eager-to-please Child Information Bureau attendant looked up from his work and said they had to be dumped into a cauldron of boiling water and kept there for 25 minutes.

"Jump into the pot first and try the temperature yourself," the attendant said between his smiling teeth.

Half an hour later there came another query. How should crayfish be eaten? A hungry, twittering crew of infants pressed closely around Uncle Mort, the C.I.B. attendant, carrying four scarlet crayfish in a saucy pan.

A plate and some salt had to be obtained. Uncle Mort then showed his class how to break away the edible tail of the crayfish, remove the shell and cut out the small innards, leaving a scrap of meat about the size of the thumbnail.

The lesson was accompanied by shrieks, nudges, and urgent claims upon the next piece of meat. Crayfish juice was splashed all over Uncle Mort's notes. Meanwhile, a child asked the bureau to pass an opinion on his skill at standing on his head. Another child screamed a request to borrow the rowboat.

The children left, scattering fragments of shell behind them. I applied myself to the typewriter again. Presently I was conscious of six small faces leering over my shoulder.

"Are you still typing?" one asked.

"Typing? What would give you an idea like that? I am operating a machine which makes hand grenades."

"What newspaper is that going in, what you're writing?"

I said there was a possibility it would go in the New Orleans Times-Picayune, or the Memphis Press-Scimitar. But chances were that it would end up in The Colonist.

"Is that all you've got done? What are you writing about?"

"I'm writing about how difficult it is to do any work with a lot of kids crowding around you."

If only they had asked what day school began, the Child Information Bureau would have told them with glee.

Britain Ousts Polish Envoy

LONDON, Sept. 4 (AP)—Britain today gave a Polish diplomat four days in which to quit the country in reprisal for the expulsion of a British Embassy official from Warsaw.

A Foreign Office statement announced that Eugene Stojanski, an attaché at the Polish embassy, had been ordered to leave "as a measure of reprisal" for the expulsion of L. H. Massey, third secretary in Britain's Warsaw mission.

Poland had accused Massey of spying. The Foreign Office statement denied the charge.

Vancouver Pilot Killed in Crash

SASKATOON, Sept. 3 (AP)—Gordon Greenway, 26-year-old part-time pilot and university student from Vancouver, died in a Saskatchewan plane crash last Thursday night while attempting to do a favor for his former employer.

The light aircraft, flying through a rainstorm, crashed and burned on a hillside near Simpson, Sask., 69 miles north-west of Regina.

The wreck—and the almost unrecognizable body of Greenway—was discovered Sunday by Leo Tihet on his farm, ending an intensive three-day ground and air search.

Iran's Clarification May Get Talks Reopened

TEHRAN, Iran, Sept. 4 (AP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadeq plans to clarify Iran's stand on the deadlocked oil nationalization issue tomorrow in the hope this will bring Britain back for new talks. It was announced today.

Popular Premier Hassan Fatemi said the Nationalist leader's statement before the senate would clarify the counter-proposals Iran handed to Britain when the Anglo-Iranian oil talks broke down two weeks ago.

Mossadeq had rejected proposals for setting up a British-controlled selling agency and for British management under Iranian control. He said Iran would consider creating a trustworthy managing organization if Britain agreed to Iran's terms on the sale of oil and on what Iran should pay Britain for the nationalized Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

There is no doubt the Iranians would like to have the talks reopened. The Abadan refinery—the world's biggest—is closed, and British tankers no longer carry the oil—main source of Iran's income—to world markets.

Fatemi said Iran needs "a few hundred" technicians.

The Iranian government, he added, has already approved in principle the sale of oil to several Soviet bloc countries.

"If the British are going to be obstinate," he said, "we will have received from foreign experts."

No Price Control Now, St. Laurent Promises

OTTAWA, Sept. 4 (CP)—Canada is not going to have direct price controls now, Prime Minister St. Laurent told the country tonight.

He said over-all price control might be necessary again in some circumstances, and the government would not hesitate to impose any controls that would really work in the interests of Canadians generally.

ON NETWORK

The Prime Minister's outline of this unchanged government stand against some demands, particularly from labor, for direct controls was given in the C.B.C.'s political free-time series.

"The most constructive thing we can do is produce more."

This suggestion, he said, came originally in a recent British Labor Party pamphlet.

He coupled it with two other things.

Officials Fly To Washington

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (INS)—Top U.S. officials in Britain, France and Germany left by air today for Washington to lay the groundwork for Big Three foreign ministers' talks next week.

Walter S. Gifford, American Ambassador to Britain, and David K. Bruce, U.S. Ambassador to France, are traveling by commercial planes. John J. McCloy, U.S. High Commissioner for Germany, is aboard a military aircraft.

While the foreign ministers are in San Francisco for the Japanese peace treaty conference, the ambassadors and McCloy will confer in Washington, with British and French political and technical experts.

The state department said it hopes that the Washington conferences will result in a Big Three agenda for presentation to Secretary of State Acheson, British Foreign Secretary Morrison and French Foreign Minister Schuman in the U.S. capital next week.

F.B.I. Chief Advises Sharp Lookout For Red Sabotage of Mobilization

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (INS)—discourage hysteria and quash false rumors. F.B.I. director J. Edgar Hoover warned today that Communist saboteurs may attempt to cripple the U.S. mobilization effort by starting fires or touching off explosions in industrial plants.

Hoover, asked co-operation from municipal, county and state law enforcement officers throughout the U.S. in combating the menace of the red saboteur.

The F.B.I. chief, in a special message to all law enforcement officials, issued through his bureau's monthly bulletin, noted also that such co-operation can

Sees Steady Foundation Built for Civil Defense

OTTAWA, Sept. 4 (CP)—Health Minister Paul Martin, possibly replying to recent defense program, said today that the program is being built on a "firm and steady foundation."

Mr. Martin, who has jurisdiction over federal civil defense matters, made no direct reference to recent statements of Major Gen. F. F. Worthington, who said Canada should either speed civil defense or "kill" it completely.

Mr. Martin said: "The civil defense co-ordinator

Strike Looms In Shipyards

More than 200 boilermakers in Victoria's two shipyards will ask the Labor Relations Board for a government-supervised strike vote today.

John Meadley, chairman of a meeting of Victoria Shipyard Workers' Federal Union, Local 238, said the decision was reached last night after a conciliation board's report favoring a 25-cent-an-hour wage boost was received. The union members of Yarrow's Limited and Victoria Machinery Depot are asking for a 50-cent-hourly pay boost.

A Conditional Gift

CONDITIONAL gifts sometimes can prove embarrassing to those to whom they are offered. That may be the case with the offer of the Spencer home on Most Street to Victoria, reserved for use as an arts centre. Coupled with the offer is a contingent request from the Arts Centre of Greater Victoria for an annual grant of $5,620, indefinitely. If the city were to accept title to the property on these terms it would have to forego taxes of $870, guarantee a cash grant of $3,000 to the Arts Centre, and undertake building and grounds maintenance at an additional $1,750 combined yearly. In return, the city would be guaranteed just what, and by whom?

The Provincial Government is already on record, through Hon. E. C. Carson, with the pledge that an art gallery will be part of British Columbia's new $2,000,000 museum when it is built in Victoria. Nor was any guarantee sought from the city on that. Will there be room for two arts centres? Even supposing the city did decide to provide a separate arts centre and gallery, would it be wise to continue this growing dispersal of units which should one day go into a city centre along with a new city hall? Charming in its time, the offered home is neither specially well adapted for an art gallery nor particularly convenient to the public. So there are a number of practical matters which the city should examine in connection with this conditional gift.

On a purely dollars and cents basis, no city council could pledge Victoria taxpayers to an outlay of $5,620 a year indefinitely, without a recorded vote at the polls on a money bill. Even the remission of taxes would demand such a poll. Such an opportunity would come in December if the corporation decided to go ahead. Meanwhile there are a number of points on which the taxpayers should be further enlightened. Would the city be alone in this, or would the other three municipalities help? Who are the guarantors to go on the contract that the other expenses of an arts centre will be met year by year if the corporation acts, and what form would that contract take? Even to lay the suggestion adequately before the ratepayers a good deal of the present fog surrounding the proposal would need to be removed. Without a plebiscite, the city has no mandate whatever to enter a scheme which calls for a Victoria guarantee of $112,000 in fixed civic grants over the next 20 years, including the remission of city taxes.

Financing Universal Pensions

ACCORDING to reports from Ottawa the only tax legislation to be brought down at the special session of parliament next month will be a bill covering the universal pension plan which will become effective next January 1. This extension of pensions is estimated to cost $250,000,000 more annually than the existing Dominion-Provincial pension, granted only on a basis of individual need.

The government has not yet given any clear indication as to what provisions the bill will contain for financing the new scheme. By its 1949 campaign pledges the government is committed to "contributory" pensions, which would seem to suggest something in the nature of a premium. "Contributory," however, can be twisted to mean almost anything, since everyone who pays taxes—and no one can escape them in one form or another—is a contributor to the federal treasury.

From the contributions of all Canadians, in the first four months of this fiscal year

Mr. Abbott built up a revenue surplus of $409,000,000. This is nearly double the amount needed to pay the additional cost of the new pension plan for a full year, and there is considerable outside pressure on the government to use part of the surplus for that purpose. Here is an opportunity for the government to fulfill its pension promise without imposing a new tax, but it is to be hoped that the temptation will be resisted. Diversion of surplus revenue might be an easy way out this year, but the precedent would then be set for financing pensions out of budget surpluses.

Through poor guesswork and well-nigh meaningless budgets Mr. Abbott has been able to show substantial "surpluses" year after year. The totals have varied widely, however, and a sound insurance or pension plan cannot be operated on unpredictable revenue. To finance pensions from current surplus would be a hand-to-mouth way of doing things. What would happen to pensions, if as is always possible, a year came when there was no surplus at all?

Holidays Are Deadly

A TOTAL of 676 persons died violently over the Labor Day week-end on this continent, according to initial tabulations made yesterday by the Canadian Press and the Associated Press. Fatalities in the United States, where 626 persons were killed, averaged one death every 7½ minutes from Friday afternoon until Monday night. In Canada 50 persons were killed, 28 of them in highway and street accidents from coast to coast. In British Columbia there were four drownings and one traffic fatality in the same period.

It doesn't seem good enough, even allowing for the fact that careless people there will always be, that each public holiday should become as costly to this continent in human lives as a major brush with an active enemy on the field of battle. Driving and pedestrian traffic has been warned ad nauseam. Every conceivable type of brake has been built into today's automobiles. Traffic lights, patrols, signs and the rest of it stretch in an almost unbroken chain from coast to coast. In addition, there is the law and its penalties. All to so little avail.

There is no genuine reason why public holidays should be so deadly. There is no need of the wild speed that contributes to some of these slayings. There is even less excuse for the drinking that makes some men totally irresponsible behind the wheel. On a holiday, moreover, there is no urgent need of hurrying anywhere. Separated thus, the actual reasons for these fatalities come down to plain human stupidity and carelessness in far too many instances.

The remedy for this carelessness is the law and its serious application. Maximum penalties enforceable under current codes should be applied with uniform and unfailing regularity until the careless are at least thinned down, though they never will be exorcised. It would not hurt to begin with the Labor Day accidents and to put some of these drivers off the road and in prison for a good long while.

NELLIE MCCLUNG

Sir,—As one who knew her personally and enjoyed the hospitality of her home, I would like to add my tribute to the late Nellie McClung. Her force as a pioneer in the literature in Western Canada is reflected in her books, but I think the memory of this great Christian lady will be most endeared to us by the moral and spiritual sincerity with which she touched so many lives as she passed this way. A fearless crusader, her actions were always motivated by the moral fervor with which she championed any cause that she espoused. Whatever others might think she was sure in her own soul that she was right.

In some ways orthodox, yet her creed was broad enough to embrace the truism that "God has made of one blood all the peoples of the Earth." She told me once her admiration for the humanitarian work of the Salvation Army that turned home alone, and on another occasion I saw her rise to the aid of a Hindu family that had come to her in perplexity and distress. Race, creed and color were never a bar to her sympathy. In the twilight of her life, in the unostentatious quiet of her country home she was constantly dispensing "those little, nameless, unremembered acts of kindness and of love" which she may not have remembered but others will not forget. She passed when the leaves begin to turn, but the leaves from Lantern Lane will not so readily fade from the minds and hearts of those who knew her best.

FOOD PARCELS

Sir,—On behalf of CARE (Co-operative for American Remittances to Europe), thanks to G. E. Mortimore and The Colonist for explaining CARE's service to Korean refugees.

Some of your readers might be glad to know that CARE sends a special "surplus" parcel to Yugoslavia. It contains enough food for 100 people for a month.

Organizations wishing to help Yugoslavia (it costs only $5.70 for 200 lbs. milk powder; 100 lbs. egg powder) will get signed receipts from the hungry people they have helped.

CARE's "family" package holds 10 lbs. skim milk powder; 3 lbs. egg powder; 5 lbs. canned dairy butter; 4 lbs. cheddar cheese; 2 lbs. canned beef in gravy—all for $5.30.

In India rations in some areas have been reduced to 900 calories a day—less than enough to keep alive. For India CARE has a family package at $5.30 and an "Indian Institution" one containing over 700 lbs. of milk, butter, cheese, beans, costing $133.

As Mr. Mortimore pointed out, British Columbia CARE orders may be sent to 701 West Hastings, Vancouver, or directly to 131 Albert Street, Ottawa.

The strange desire of the British to paddle at least once a year.

—London Daily Express.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK
While Visiting Britain

WE would all like to think that nobody will be able to look back upon this generation with horror. But of course they will, if for nothing else than the wars we staged. But in the ordinary domestic scene, we are pretty comfortable in our belief that we are about as humane a generation as there could be.

...men have just published an edition of a book, "Mayhew's Characters," written and illustrated in 1831, the year of the Great Exhibition in London. That exhibition could be said to have launched the Victorian Age on its full tide. There Mayhew's Characters describe in minute and passionless detail the chimney sweeps, the child laborers, the poor, their wages, hoxes, beds, kitchens. Their food. There is no reforming zeal in the book, no passion, no politics. Mayhew just went about compiling a collection of people in London 100 years ago who appealed to him as "characters". The book builds up a feeling of horror that amounts almost to shock. But the shocking thing that lingers in your mind after you have read it is the nasty suspicion that no generation can see itself. We can be perfectly sure that the generation which staged the Great Exhibition of 1851 was eminently pleased with itself. Deep around the fringe of that generation were hosts of "characters", underprivileged, poor, oppressed and literally horribly treated; but it apparently never occurred to them or to the comfortable society imposed upon them that life could be any different. We always have our "characters".

The enormous social strides since 1851 are declared by Mayhew better than by historians. Our pride in that is doubtless equalled only by the pride of the generation who staged the Great Exhibition in the enormous strides they had taken over 1751. What do you suppose there is about us that will horrify our great-grandchildren in 2051?

Boys

BY ARTHUR "BUGS" BARR

WITH vacation days back in the trunk we have completed our survey of extraneous notations. A tent-tent canvass of the popular indifference indicates that nobody had more fun than boys.

How do boys enjoy themselves? Answering others.

And what is the particular sound that gives a boy more satisfaction than anything else?

It's the tinkle of broken glass. It's the cascade of shattered bottles pouring over a Niagara of official remonstrances.

Have you ever watched a boy playing Dabs-on-Davy? He puts an empty milk bottle on a fence-post. Then he bombards it with slaps, air rifle or just plain hand-operated dornick. The game is over when the milk bottle is shattered for other boys to step on.

Why does a boy heave stones at Pullmans? You may love the sound of sweet violins in the moonlight. You may bask in the reflected tones of larks in the dawn. You may note on the chirp of autumn crickets and the ripple of brooks over sand. But a boy likes to hear the crack of glass.

That's why he winds up and lets fly at the windows of a vacant house, for no more apparent reason than the villain turns up his coat collar in "Way Down East." The boy doesn't hate houses. He doesn't know who lived there or where they went. All he knows is there is a 20-room house. At least two windows to every room. And some extra for stairways and landings.

So he proceeds to let air and sunlight into the shack. Also wind, rain and snow. He demolishes the place methodically. We suspect some boys of operating from blue prints and battle maps. How else could they perpetrate such complete disaster?

No boy has ever got a sharpshooter's medal for distance and accuracy. He is a pure amateur who likes the place apart for the same reason why ladies smack mouths with rolled-up newspapers. Just for the sport.

So when a boy drops a dish or glass it isn't carelessness. It is not with malice incorporated. It's just for fun. And because he has an ear for music.

Looking Back

Through Colonist Files

25 YEARS AGO—The creation of a metropolitan police area, utilizing the city police station as a central headquarters, was advocated yesterday, by police commissioner Walter E. Stancand, supported by Mayor Pendray.

50 YEARS AGO—There is a growing habit in this city of throwing loads of firewood on the side of the street and permitting them to remain there all night. The city should take steps to end this dangerous and annoying practice.

85 YEARS AGO—The present House of Assembly will die a natural death next week. In the meantime the members are too lethargic to bother meeting, and yesterday the House was counted out for the third time in a row.

Standardizing Aircraft

By GAULT MACGOWAN
(North American Newspaper Alliance)

ROCHENECOURT.—Plans for the maintenance of all tactical aircraft are now being drafted at the Supreme Headquarters for the Allied Powers in Europe (S.H.A.P.E.) here in association with the Atlantic Pact Council of Deputies in London, which is expanding its organization to deal with this and other problems referred to it for high-level decision.

Aircraft maintenance is now a national responsibility, with Great Britain and the United States rendering technical assistance. Before the mutual defense assistance program was started in the United States, the British government had been assisting the Western European nations to restart and develop their aircraft industries under the Brussels Pact.

France is licensed to build British Vampires and her fighter pilots, trained in England, are also flying British Meteors and Vampires. Norway's pilots are flying some old Spitfires now but they are gradually switching to Meteors. Holland, which has been very close to Britain in her aviation planning, and Belgium have been making Meteors and Vampires.

British fighter pilots take aloft Venoms, Meteors and Vampires. The Canberras are used as tactical light bombers, and this month Britain's new four-jet bomber, the Short SA-4 made a successful first flight. No announcement has been made yet whether this new jet bomber will go into mass production. However, the new Supermarine Swift, a fighter jet with swept-back wings, is in quantity production.

Britain is in keen supersonic aircraft competition with America, and it is likely to give United States aircraft manufacturers a stiff contest in this field. Western nations are close observers of the performance of British planes. Britain's first four-jet bomber, the Vickers-Valet, which made its maiden flight last May, is also in the competitive picture.

The Bristol Aircraft Company has licensed the French national aircraft construction—concern to build their Hercules motors which are to be placed in troop carrier-airframes of French construction. The Bristol company is under contract to supply the Hercules motors for the airframes until the French assembly line is ready. This French troop carrier has been ordered in quantities for S.H.A.P.E.'s needs.

This is but part of a complex background behind S.H.A.P.E. in facing problems of integration and standardization which are becoming more and more urgent.

More than 50 different types of new model British airplanes will be exhibited for the first time this September in England. More than 20 will be jets making their first public appearance. Chaos could easily arise in a free-for-all among United States, British and other national aircraft without an integrated program.

The N.A.T.O. deputies in London in August set up a planning and co-ordination group under British chairmanship. United States, France, Norway, Italy and Belgium have nominated consultative members, and integration of the aircraft production field will be one of the major problems the five representatives will be asked to organize. Some form of standardization will have to be settled before the European army comes into being. It is, however, recognized that competitive enterprise in aircraft production must be encouraged to keep the Western defenses ahead of future Russian developments.

Gerald Waring Reporting From Ottawa

"My job," explained Walter Thompson, "is to knock on the door and say 'I've got some friends with me. May I bring them in?'"

The door on which Thompson is knocking is a figurative one—the privacy of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

The friends are the correspondents, photographers, radio commentators and newsreel cameramen who will cover the Royal tour this fall.

Thompson was called out of retirement—he was formerly director of public relations for the C.N.R.—to handle press arrangements for the biggest and most important visit of royalty since the King and Queen toured this country in 1939.

His 36 years in railway public relations had been interrupted by such special assignments before. A quarter of a century ago Ottawa drafted him to head the publicity committee for the Diamond Jubilee celebration. And when Their Majesties visited Canada, it was Thompson who was assigned the task of arranging news coverage of the event.

Probably the most successful public relations man Canada ever produced, Thompson is the antithesis of the press agent type. A man of heavy girth, carrying with him the evidence of his appreciation of the gods of things of life, dressed in blue serge, with a keen mind behind eyes that miss nothing.

True to his English birth, he was having tea when I called on him. We talked of his job.

"There should be a whole year of preparation for a Royal visit," he remarked. "Instead, we have only three months."

Thompson's reason: making all the multifarious arrangements is a tremendous task, involving hundreds of planners on the federal, provincial and municipal levels of government, and the transportation, communication and hotel companies. Furthermore, the Royal couple must approve all engagements planned for them.

"There will be lots of news; many interesting things to report," Thompson, whose newspaperman's nose for news is unsurpassed, already has conferred with the Princess and her husband in London. He judges that the Canadian people will take them to their hearts and devour every line of news copy which can be written about them.

"You don't ask members of the Royal Family many questions. But they (the Princess and her husband) are very cooperative."

Enlisting the cooperation of the Royal pair was half Thompson's job, for without the acceptance of the glare of publicity into which they will be projected, his arrangement of news coverage would be infinitely more difficult.

Thompson expects there will be 200 or more correspondents, photographers and radio people covering the visit in the larger cities. Perhaps 75 will accompany Their Royal Highnesses throughout the tour.

How to arrange for all these people to report and photograph the doings of the Royal couple, and yet not be under the visitors' feet all day long, is Thompson's main problem.

In Britain, he explains, people are accustomed to seeing members of the Royal Family, and the latter move about freely without causing traffic jams or being pursued by photographers.

At Ascot, for example, press photographers all but ignore the King and Queen, and concentrate on photographing the winning horses. And whenever news photographs of royalty are taken, there are never more than two photographers admitted.

Instead of two, Princess Elizabeth and the duke will face dozens every day in Canada. It will be a new experience for them. Walter Thompson doesn't want it to be a distressing one.

Ottumwa's Utopia

MEMBER'S of the United Packing-house Workers' Union employed by the John Morrell Packing Co. of Ottumwa, Iowa, seem to have fixed their eyes on pie in the sky.

Certainly the list of things they want from management reads so much like a letter to Santa Claus as to suggest that junior members of their families had a hand in its composition.

First there would be a 15-pound ham or its equivalent in beef for each worker at Christmas and Easter. Each employee would get a paid holiday on his birthday. And there would be free lunches, free advice from social workers, free legal aid and expert help in solving housekeeping, buying and other domestic problems. Finally each worker would have two hours of travel time to and from the job at company expense.

Shades of Sir Thomas More! Here is his Utopia indeed. But in the proposals we detect a crass note of materialism. All is not idealistic when, as in this case, the question of "When do we eat?" remains so much in the foreground.

Free hams for Christmas and Easter? Wouldn't free Christmas trees and an Easter egg hunt, financed of course by management, make the program more genuinely Utopian?

Fun, Fact and Fiction

Biggest story of the season appears in Chemical and Engineering News, in a symposium of scientists on what life will be like 75 years hence. There will, it seems, be a future.

Seven Taken to Hospital After Traffic Mishaps

Seven persons were injured here in traffic accidents over the Labor Day weekend. Total damage was estimated at more than $3,000.

Injured were:
Mr. and Mrs. Arthur T. Walden, 70, Maddock, internal injuries; Mrs. George Speed, Albert Head, severe shock; William Evans, 3981 Saanich Road, severe facial cuts; Manfred Lewis, H.M.C.S. Naden, face cuts; Robert T. Copley, 616 Lampson, minor injuries; and Gnr. T. E. Devonshire, Gordon Head army camp, broken leg.
The Waldens were injured Sunday in a spectacular three-car collision on the Island Highway at Colwood. Police said the Walden car brushed another driven by Mrs. Speed before colliding head-on with one driven by Mrs. H. J. Pendray, Lagoon Road.

Evans was injured after his car left Saanich Road and plunged over a 50-foot embankment. The car was demolished.
Lewis was hurt when his U-drive car left the road on Admirals. He was taken to H.M.C.S. Naden Hospital by a taxi driver.
A three-car collision on the Malahat resulted in injuries to Copley. Police said other drivers involved were Gordon R. Croft, 522 Samson, and James L. Richards, 541 Dalton.

Price Controls C.C.L. Target At Convention

Canadian Congress of Labor is to challenge the federal government on its failure to use price controls at an annual convention at Vancouver beginning Sept. 17.

The matter will be high on the agenda, said Robert Small, president of Victoria Labor Council (C.C.L.).

Sharp attacks on government policy are expected from C.C.L. president A. R. Mosher and other speakers.

The convention is also expected to consider the executive council suspension last spring of the International Fur and Leather Workers' Union, which has approximately 4,000 members across Canada.

The union was suspended for alleged Communist domination.

Convention support of the council action would result in the union's expulsion from the congress.

Approximately 15 delegates from Victoria are expected to attend.

Resolutions from the Victoria Labor Council include demands for reimposition of price controls, extension of unemployment insurance benefits to workers made idle by, but not participating in a strike, and extension of collective bargaining privileges to government employees.

Thirty-eight members of the organizations were entertained by local organization at buffet supper at The Ranch last night. Chemical Addition May Kill Manure Odor

A suggested solution may end protests against use of liquid manure on the Saanich farm of F. A. Rudd, 785 West Burnside, when it is next pumped from its storage pit.

E. Oliver Wins Riding Prizes

Elizabeth Oliver of Victoria, walked off with the majority of prizes at the Saanich Club's horse show at the Saanich Fair Monday.

Miss Oliver, riding Water Lily, won the Carley Cup for novice jumping, Shanks Trophy for hack under 15.2, and the Wafney Trophy for open jumping. She also teamed up with Miss J. Froer and J. Simpson to place second in the three hunter tandem.

He said the pit may be pumped within the next month.

NO CHANCE

"If I had been given a ghost of a chance to answer personally the protests of residents, there would have been no need for this trouble," Mr. Rudd said.

"My farm turns out three tons of dry manure per day," he said.

"It has to go back into the fields and it will go back unless there is a law against it."

He explained the storage pit holds 25,000 gallons, requiring pumping about every two months. It either goes back into the ground or is drained into the gorge.

Value of the liquid manure was placed at $6,000 a year.

Earlier, a report was read from Dr. A. N. Beattie, medical health officer, who recommended that residents of the neighborhood appear before the health board.

Few Dance, Many Listen As Hampton Scores Hit

Lionel Hampton, popular Negro band leader and acknowledged king of the vibraphones, packed more than 1,000 persons into the Badminton Hall last night and kept them applauding and asking for more.

The crowd, though appreciative, was not noisy.

Most of the people were there to hear the music. There was seldom more than a dozen couples dancing.

The size of the crowd was encouraging to those who are hoping for visits from other name bands.

Officials of Western Amusements, the Vancouver firm which brought Hampton to Victoria, had promised more big names for Victoria if last night's presentation was a success.

Members of Athletics Hurry Home As Club Ends Season in Seventh Spot

Yankee	2	9	.182
Yankee	1	10	.091

By the time most sports-page readers have scanned these lines, every member of the 1951 Victoria Athletics will be homeward bound.

It may have been a glance at the standings, which show that the club wound up in seventh place, but whatever it was, the knowledge that they lost 11 of their last 13 games, or just plain homesickness, but whatever it was, the A's wasted no time getting off Vancouver Island. Jim Hedgecock started the exodus by leaving on the midnight boat, his teammates all planned to leave early today.

They wound up the season a bit indignantly last night by taking a 15-0 thumping from Salem Senators to end their last home stand with one victory in six games.

With nothing at stake, players of both clubs fastened-batting averages by sharing in 33 hits. From the Victoria viewpoint, the feature was Bill White's successful effort to finish the season with 100 runs batted in. The big outfielder batted in five last night with a home run and two singles to wind up with a total of 102 according to unofficial compilation.

It will be a lunch bucket and time clock for most of the A's during the off-season, with many planning to play some winter baseball. Just how many will be back next spring, or if there is to be a next year, for the A's, remains to be seen, but this is what the A's have in mind while waiting:

Ben Torino—Straight home to North Hollywood and waiting lumber trail. Anxious to return to Victoria in 1952.

Bill Martin—No, dallying on way home to Vancouver, Wash., where he will look for a job. Would like to return.

John Tierney—Back to San Francisco home soonest. Hopes to spend off-season working for post office department. Anxious to return.

Bill White—Home to "Nar-walk, Calif. Hopes to get job in Los Angeles school system working with youngsters with postural defects. Probably will return after, though disappointed with showing this season. Had hoped for good year and return to league in higher classification.

Hal Jackson—Heading for Torrance, Calif., where he will make decision whether to return to San Angelo, Texas, for department store employment on to go to Panama for winter baseball.

Mary Diecks—Plans two weeks in Portland before returning home at Laguna Beach, Calif. Plans indefinite. May operate service station or sell it and seek other employment. Would like to play second season in Victoria.

Bob Sturgeon—Driving to Sacramento with Bill Osborn, flying from there to home at Long Beach and immediate holiday in mountains with family. Plans indefinite. May seek other employment. Would like to play second season in Victoria.

Don Pries—Flying to home in Alameda, Calif., where he will bite nails until sometime in October when he'll head for home to present him with what he hopes will be left-handed hitting infielder. Will look for work, play winter baseball on Sundays. Would like another season in Victoria if unable to make Coast League.

Gene Thompson—Leaving today with Mrs. Thompson and eight-month-old Tommy for home in Lakewood and job as truck driver.

Ben Jeffrey—Straight to Los Angeles and date with draft board. Expects to be in U.S. army within a few weeks.

Jim Hedgecock—Plans to live in Oakland where he will work in laboratory for sugar company.

Bill Dunn—Returning to job as bartender in San Francisco. Not quite so definite about announced intention of hanging up spikes after fine finish at plate.

Bob Carr—Going home at once to San Francisco. Plans from there indefinite.

Bill Carr—Straight to Vallejo home and hoped-for job in shipyards. Promises to make better time on return trip.

Jim Clark—Almost became Victoria resident for winter months. Would have stayed but missed job of managing Strathcona Bowling Alleys. Now homeward bound for Santa Monica with plans for job of home sort and some winter baseball. Will be back if A's play.

Jim Propp—Waiting no time in reaching home in Kansas City and job in ordinance plant.

Bill Prior—Remains at job with King's Printers. Willing to play part-time baseball next season.

Lost to Cougars

GERRY COTNOIR

Star goalie whose play in latter part of season last year was leading role in Victoria Cougars' surge to P.C.I.L. championship. Will be lost to club for first half of season at least. Cotnoir informed manager Fred Hutchison by letter yesterday that he had broken his leg playing baseball for Granby and will be unable to start training until late in November. Owner Lester Patrick is hoping that Montreal Canadiens will be able to supply replacement and at least two defencemen. Cougars are left with only Flori Gogan and Joe Le-pine as rearguards following retirement of Don Webster and failure of coach Roger Legier to sign.

Y" Swimmers Sweep Gala At Alberni

The Flying "Y" swimming team proved too strong for coach Olaf Hansen's Flying Fish in a gala at Alberni over the weekend.

The "Y" made clean sweeps in the women's 100-yard freestyle and 100-yard breaststroke and took the first two places in the women's 100-yard backstroke. Gillian Watson, Gael Stott and Ann Heywood finished in order in the freestyle. Norma Stewart, Miss Stott and Marilyn Naysmith were one, two, three in the breaststroke. Miss Heywood trailed Miss Naysmith in the backstroke.

The medley relay team of Misses Naysmith, Stott and Watson proved too strong for the Alberni trio.

The Flying "Y" Aquanymphs, coached by Rita Norbury, gave three shows over the weekend, appearing twice at Port Alberni and once at Courtenay.

Saanich, Bays Reach Finals Of City Boxla

Saanich and Oak Bay moved into the final round of the city pee-wee box lacrosse championship with victories over Ferwood and Fairfield, respectively, over the weekend.

Saanich won its two-game, total-goal series from Ferwood 6-2, while Oak Bay downed Fairfield 6-3. The winners will meet in the first game of a best-of-three series for the city title at 6:30 p.m. Friday in Stevenson Park.

Second games in the Vancouver Island pee-wee, juvenile "B" and senior "B" lacrosse championships will be played at Memorial Arena tonight. Victoria leads Nanaimo 1-0 in each best-of-three series.

The pee-wee game will start at 7 p.m., and the juvenile "B" an hour later. Foul Bay and the Nanaimo senior "B" team will take the floor in the feature match at 9.

Girodays Take Softball Title Two Straight

Vancouver Girodays captured the British Columbia senior "A" men's softball championship by sweeping the best-of-three series from Butler's Aces, 2-0.

Both games were decided in 10 innings. Vancouver took the first game Saturday, 9-6, and came back Sunday with a 3-2 triumph.

They will now meet the prairie winner for the Western Canada title, won last year by Vancouver Firemen.

Art Hughes lashed out a triple with Bill Bayers on third to drive in the winning run in the bottom of the tenth inning on Sunday.

Girodays defeated Grouse, 8-3, in an exhibition contest following Sunday's playoff game.

Combines Oust Commandos; To Meet Shamrocks Saturday

The Inter-City Lacrosse League final will open at Memorial Arena on Saturday with Victoria Shamrocks meeting Vancouver Combines in the first game of a best-of-seven series.

Combines gained the final by a 13-12 lead, but rugged Bobby Brammer scored again at 2:06.

Smith's fifth goal at 27 seconds, jumped the eventual victors into a 13-12 lead, but rugged Bobby Brammer scored again at 2:06.

Combines over the favored New Westminster Commandos at Vancouver last night to take the best-of-five series in straight games after playing to a 15-15 overtime tie in the first game. Combines won the second game, 15-12, and the third, 13-8.

A crowd of 2,200 at Kerrisdale Arena saw Combines play the smarter game although outshot for the fourth straight time.

Combines held a slim territorial margin, but majority of their goals were the result of pure brute force. Conversely, Vancouver's attack was calculating and many of their goals were set up by precision blocking and pinball passing.

Centre Ernie Smith's six goals fired Vancouver's attack, while lanky Jack Green was once again phenomenal between the pipes. He stopped 31 of 44 shots.

TRAIL THROUGHOUT
Combines lagged 7-6 at the half and were still one goal down, 9-8, entering the final period.

Mike Munro's only goal of the game gave the Soldiers a 12-10 lead at 9:28, but Ed Hanson and then Bus Byford, with a clever one-hand shot from the lip of the crease at 12:10, forced the extra time.

Smith's fifth goal at 27 seconds, jumped the eventual victors into a 13-12 lead, but rugged Bobby Brammer scored again at 2:06.

LITTLE CHANCE
Kenny Webb clocked the winner for Vancouver, drilling a perfect pass to a racing Smith far down in the Commando end. Smith, after having defencemen Jake Proctor barely miss intercepting the pass, afforded goalie Harry Preston no chance. Time was 6:32.

There were no ill-feelings in the New Westminster dressing room after the game. Said coach Ralph Douglas: "Combines have a terrific team. If they don't let Victoria change their style, they'll walk over those Shamrocks."

Building Permanent B.C. Industry Object of Provincial Livestock Branch

The provincial livestock branch is attempting to build British Columbia's livestock industry on a sound and permanent basis by moving to eradicate existing diseases and then preventing new diseases from becoming established, Agriculture Minister Harry Bowman declared Monday night in a radio address.

The next step will be to extend and improve the quality population," stated Mr. Bowman. Veterinary inspectors attached to the livestock branch, provide assistance for farmers, he said.

This service has not only saved the industry millions of dollars, but has done much to protect consumers against disease, he added.

Theatre Drive For Members Nearing Quota

Drive for 500 members for the Victoria Theatre Guild is nearly completed.

H. E. Stubbings, president, said yesterday that only 60 new members are now needed to bring membership up to quota.

Mr. Stubbings announced the guild's November play and Dominion Drama Festival entry will be "The Heiress," directed by Audrey St. D. Johnson.

Rehearsals for the first play of the season, Noel Coward's "Present Laughter," have been going on for a month. It will be presented Sept. 17.

"Born Yesterday," also in rehearsal, will be staged Oct. 22.

Facilities Loaded By Travelers

Victorians took off by train, plane, boat and bus over the Labor Day weekend to put a heavy load on transportation facilities in the area.

Fifteen extra Vancouver Island Coach Lines buses took passengers to the Cordova Bay regatta and Squish Fall Fair. Bus travel to other island points was very heavy, said officials.

Boats between here and Seattle and the mainland were filled, but no one was turned away.

Trans-Canada Air Lines handled about 3,700 passengers between Friday and Monday at Patricia Bay airport in one of the biggest movements recorded here. Officials said 34 extra flights were added to the regular schedule to Vancouver and Seattle.

In Victoria, hotels put up the "no vacancies" sign as visitors packed most available accommodation. A sharp decline was felt yesterday as many tourists packed up to go home.

Study of Rates Scrutinized By Chamber

A study by the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways on freight rates is under scrutiny by the Chamber of Commerce, a chamber spokesman said yesterday.

The study was for the Railway Association of Canada to assist the Board of Transport Commissioners in general freight rates investigations begun in 1948.

Rates contained in the study were based on two plans suggested by the railways. One was on the assumption that a uniform "class rate" would be applied throughout Canada. The second indicates results to be anticipated if modifications of an equalization plan are adopted on traffic moving between eastern and western Canada.

The association said the second suggestion would cause less disturbance to the rate relationships of competing shippers. It suggested, however, that both plans would require study.

The chamber is fighting for freight rate parity with Vancouver.

No date has been set for a proposed meeting of the chamber rates committee and the city council finance committee.

INQUIRY STARTED

The private inquiry into last Thursday's collision between the Canadian Pacific steamship Princess Kathleen and the Canadian National steamship Prince Rupert started in Vancouver today.

The two vessels collided in dense fog about 50 miles north of Prince Rupert.

Captain J. C. Barbour, transport department representative in Vancouver said he will start his investigation of the Prince Rupert and will investigate the Princess Kathleen when she arrives in Vancouver.

"And my heart still pounds when I think of it," said Mrs. Syd S. F. Foster, 1165 Fairfield, on her return from the mainland.

Mrs. Foster said she slept lightly the night of the crash until "we heard a terrible crashing noise and the splintering of timbers."

Mrs. Foster said there was no panic and all passengers

Eight Singers Given Radio Auditions

Radio's John Adaskin puffed on his pipe yesterday and felt satisfied that Victoria may have at least one singer good enough to get a berth on CBC's Singing Stars of Tomorrow show.

A short, tireless man, with a colorful bow tie and a huge and constant faith in Canada's singing talent, he was here to listen to eight Victoria singers who may have a chance on the radio show.

Mr. Adaskin works with machine-gun rapidity and has a timetable as exact as that of a railroad.

But in his cross-country talent searching, he found time to listen to Louise Martin, Stan Martin, Madonna MacCabe, Betty LeMotte, Geraldine Nash, June Milburn and John Dunbar at CJVI yesterday afternoon.

Author's Death Asserted Suicide

FLEMINGTON, N.J., Sept. 4 (AP)—Author Louis Adamic was found dead today in his burning farm house, and a coroner ruled his death was caused by a "supposedly self-inflicted" bullet wound.

A .22-calibre rifle was found across Adamic's knees.

Police and firemen said the kitchen of the house at Milford, N.J., 10 miles west of here, was burned out and kerosene-soaked rags were scattered through the rooms.

Adamic's body was found lying on a couch with his head on a pillow in an upstairs bedroom.

DR. CHASE'S
Antiseptic OINTMENT

His listening has taken him to most of the big western cities and he has heard well over 125 singers. He thinks most of them sounded pretty good.

He explained that the end result of these tryouts will see 44 singers on the show throughout its season—22 young men and the same number of young women.

Ages run from 16 to 26.

Canadian talent, he says, is as good as anything anywhere. "But it has to be developed properly. That's why we are always on the lookout for new singers."
